The Future of Lehi is Blooming

WRITTEN BY COUNCILOR CHRIS CONDIE

Daylight is increasing, and spring is upon us. Utah had a record winter with regards to snowfall, and now the several inches of water we received is beginning its journey to our reservoirs and lakes. As the water flows to fill our reservoirs and lakes, we still want to continue our water conservation efforts. Lehi residents have demonstrated that a small amount of water goes a long way in keeping our lawns, trees, and shrubs healthy, green, and vibrant.

Lehi City continues to bloom, and we are a beacon for Utah's economy. We are a model for how proficiently a city can be managed and how effectively taxpayer dollars can be utilized. Lehi City is building a new city hall, library, and a fourth fire station to be located on the west side of Lehi. In addition, Lehi has invested millions of dollars in water storage, residential fiber networks, parks, and open space.

So why a new city hall and library? As the city grows in population, so does demand for the services provided by the city. The current City Hall has been renovated several times to accommodate growth, but its limit has been reached. The use of our library has increased significantly; demand to participate in library programs is at capacity, and more and more books are being checked out every day.

In the past 8 years, Lehi City has built four buildings that incorporate the history, values, and character of our pioneers. These recent buildings I am referring to are the Public Works Building, the Power Building, Fire Station 83, and most recently, the Public Safety Building. I am excited to incorporate more of our history as we participate in the design of the new City Hall and Library building. I know it will pay homage to our past and sustain our city well into the future.

Lehi City is wonderful and unique. I am honored and so grateful for the opportunity to serve the residents of Lehi, to live in Lehi, and to raise my family in Lehi. Our city continues to grow, but we will never forget our history or the pioneers who came before us.

- Chris Condie

Water Department

Per City ordinance, there is no outside watering before April 15. With that said, we ask that residents wait to water their lawn until May 1. Waiting a little longer to use the water can make a big difference later in the heat of the summer.

Exceptions

There are a few exceptions that should be considered. If you have just put in new seed or sod, please continue to water those. Also, make sure that if your trees or shrubs need some water, you water them with a hose.

City Exceptions

The City will continue to minimally water our sports fields so that recreational activities can finish their season. Additionally, there will be minimal water usage as systems are updated and seed is added to some areas. The cemetery may be watered as needed to maintain its serene landscape and environment.
